AN INSTANTANEOUS PHOTOGRAPH OF A FLASH OF LIGHTNING, TAKEN BY ROBERT HAENSEL, AT REICHEM-BOHEMIA. — Nature.

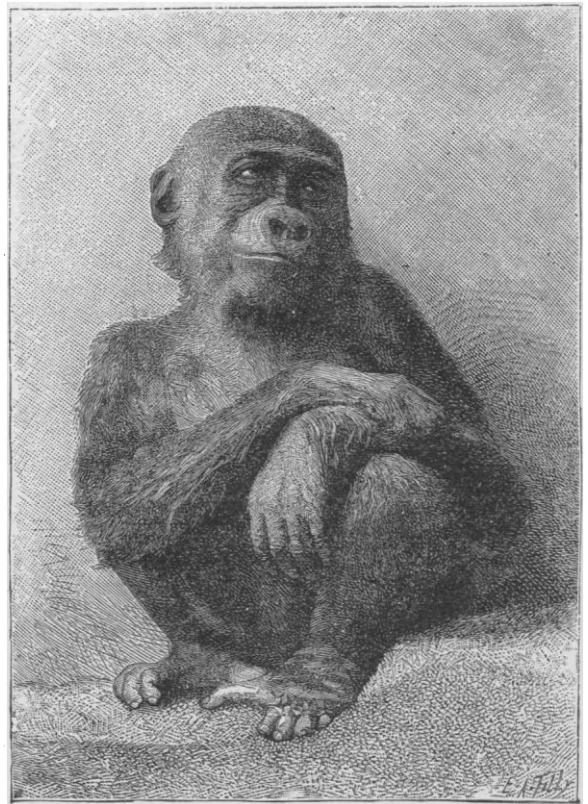

PHOTOGRAPHIC REVOLVER FOR INSTANTANEOUS PHOTOGRAPHY.

A, the shutter rotated by clock-work when the catch B is released from the teeth K by pressure on the trigger. After a plate has been exposed in the holder C, the barrel G is revolved by hand; and, the catch E being released by the inclined plane at F, the plate is transferred to the chamber for exposed plates (shown below in the figure). By continued rotation, the chamber of fresh plates is brought opposite the holder, and another plate pressed by the spring into the holder. — La Nature.
