

EXPOSURE AND CROPS IN SWITZERLAND.

NUMBERLESS examples may be given to show the difference of exposure, on southern and northern slopes, upon the vegetation. A recent striking illustration is noted in La Géographie, No. 3, 1905, and described in the Bulletin of the American Geographical Society for July. Above the hamlet of Findelen, near Zermatt, in the Alps, barley and rye are grown at an altitude of 6,900 feet above sea level, on a sunny southern slope. On the northern slopes, a few hundred yards distant, there is an arctic-alpine flora, with patches of snow lying below the level of the fields of grain on the southern slope.
