THE non-resident lecturer in chemistry at Cornell University for the second term of the present academic year, February 15-June 1, will be Professor Alfred E. Stock, director of the Chemical Institute of the Technische Hochschule of Karlsruhe, Germany.

Professor Stock was born in Danzig in 1876, and received the degree of doctor of philosophy, Magna cum Laude from the University of Berlin in 1899. In 1898 he held the position of lecture assistant under Professor Emil Fischer at the University of Berlin, and from 1899 to 1900 he carried on investigations in the laboratory of Henri Moissan in Paris. Returning to Berlin he qualified for the position of privat-docent in 1904 and was promoted to a professorship in 1906. In 1909 he went to Breslau as professor of inorganic chemistry in the newly founded Technische Hochschule there, and was appointed director of the Institute of Inorganic Chemistry. In 1925 he was called to the University of Münster, but before entering upon the duties of that position he accepted appointment in the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Chemistry in Berlin-Dahlem, and became director of this institute and professor in the philosophical faculty of the University of Berlin in 1921. He resigned this position in 1926 to accept appointment as director of the Chemical Institute of the Technische Hochschule of Karlsruhe.

Professor Stock, according to our correspondent, "is one of the most versatile and gifted investigators in the field of inorganic chemistry, and his many investigations, numbering over 160, are characterized by brilliant experimental technique and convincing thoroughness." While at Cornell he will lecture upon the high-vacuum method for studying volatile substances, the chemistry of boron, the preparation and properties of beryllium, and chronic mercurial poisoning, discussing in detail the detection and determination of traces of mercury. His introductory public lecture, to be delivered on February 17 will be on "The Present State of the Natural Sciences." His regular lectures will begin on Thursday, February 18.
