THE IDENTITY THEORY

By Blamey Stevens

THE author claims to have discovered a new theory opposed to that of Relativity. The fundamental postulate of his theory is that Space and Time are identical entities, differing only in the number of dimensions into which they are divided. He points out that the constancy of the velocity of light follows directly from this fundamental postulate, whereas in the Relativity Theory the fundamental postulate of a space-time continuum does not, of itself, lead to such a conclusion. It is then shown that the electro-magnetic field equations comply with the identity postulate and finally that the gravity field is indirectly explained by it, thus covering all field phenomena. A considerable part of the text is free from mathematics.
