IT'S DONE WITH STEREOZOOM®

... in the Poultry Husbandry Laboratory of Dr. Ursula K. Abbott, University of California, Davis. Here, a micro-surgical technique is being demonstrated on a live, 3½-day chick embryo by graduate student Robert Craig. Simultaneously, a technician observes through a second StereoZoom Training Microscope. Thus StereoZoom helps in experimental studies of developmental genetics. Makes teaching and learning more effective.

The bright, sharp three-dimensional imagery of StereoZoom is especially useful when working with small structures of low optical density. The continuously variable zoom range permits uninterrupted observation of a moving object without blackout. The specimen stays in focus even while changing magnification.

This is another of the vital roles played by StereoZoom in bio-research, education, diagnostic and industrial applications. There are 24 different models with selected magnification ranges from 3½× through 200×, ready to solve your problems. You can choose a complete microscope or selected components ... to do your job right. Invertebrate Zoology

By PAUL A. MEGLITSCH, Drake University

The basic processes of all the invertebrates, from the Protozoans through Insects and Myriapods, are covered in this introductory text, organized for use in either a one-semester or full-year course. Considerable attention is given to comparative physiology, though all discussions are comprehensible to the student of general zoology. An abundant selection of meaningful illustrations enhances the book, and a glossary, extensive references, and index are included.

Respiration

By PIERRE DEJOURS, University of Paris Medical School. Translated by LEON E. FARHI, M.D., State University of New York at Buffalo

"This book has a fresh, original approach in developing the subject in a logical manner from the relatively simple facts of gas behavior to the complicated, still incompletely resolved regulation of pulmonary ventilation. The author has an unusual knack of simplifying difficult concepts. This makes for delightful reading."—J. Clifford Stickney, School of Medicine, University of West Virginia Medical Center.

How many programmable calculators can solve this expression?

$$A = \sqrt[3]{3 \text{INV}(A)} - C_1 \text{INV}(A) + C_2 \text{INV}(A) + C_3^*$$

ONLY ONE

LOCI-2

This is one of many expressions, commonly used in engineering and science, which only WANG'S LOCI-2, of the available programmable electronic calculators, has the capability of solving. And it can provide the value of A in less than 5 seconds.

The extraordinary computational power of the LOCI-2 is a natural result of its unique logarithmic approach to data manipulation. In fact, it actually approaches the performance of full-size computer systems in many of its capabilities, such as the on-line control of process and production systems.

If you are considering the purchase of a programmable calculator, avoid built-in limitations in logic power or flexibility. LOCI-2 extends your computational horizons . . . yet costs no more than other, more limited, systems.

*from $\text{INV}(A) = \text{TAN}(A) - A$, a familiar expression in gear design, used to determine the angle "A" when its involute, $\text{INV}(A)$, is known. Here is the keying sequence on the LOCI-2, given $\text{INV}(A) = .05367$, with the proper program card in the reader:

1. Prime	3. W → S1
2. Key in .05367 (INV(A))	4. Po
5. Read A = 29.9860 Degrees

Investigate the capabilities of this unique, personal, programmable calculator. LOCI-2 prices range from $2750 to $8450. Write today for complete details.
